

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTES

AUGUST
12-13
2010

Register Now to Reserve
Your Place in Pueblo, Colorado.

Register On-line at www.paideia.org

Pueblo School for Arts and Sciences

2415 Jones Avenue
Pueblo, Colorado 81004

Two Day Institute
August 12-13, 2010
8:30 am to 4:00 pm

Registration:
$400 through July 15, 2010
$500 after July 15, 2010

Registration Deadline:
August 3, 2010

THE UNIVERSITY of NORTH CAROLINA

ADVANCED SEMINAR

“... Teaching by asking questions... stimulates the imagination and intellect by awakening the creative and inquisitive powers. In no other way can children's understanding of what they know be appreciated, and their appreciation of cultural objects be enhanced.” (Adler, 1982)

Are you an experienced seminar facilitator who wonders why some seminars don't go as well as others? Are you interested in strategies for helping students to think deeply within a complete literacy framework? Would you like to strengthen your approach to developing challenging questions?

Terry Roberts, PhD
Director

Join us as we consider the finer points of seminar planning and assessment, including: identifying rich and paradoxical texts, designing and asking questions in the right sequence at the right time, steps for analytical reading, and guiding student reflection.

This Institute will help you become more aware and effective as a seminar leader so that your seminars will evoke increasingly sophisticated engagement from a wider variety of students. The result will be an increased ability on the part of your students to understand and explain the complex ideas that shape your curriculum.

Laura Billings, PhD
Associate Director

If you are serious about seminar dialogue, this is your opportunity to grow both in your understanding of the dynamic of discussion and in your ability to inspire it.

The National Paideia Center • 140 Friday Center Drive
Chapel Hill • North Carolina 27517
Phone (919) 962-3128 • Fax (919) 962-3139
www.paideia.org • info@paideia.org